CME/CE/CEU INFO PACKET

CME/CE/CEU Certificates

CME/CE/CEU Certificates

Conference evaluations will be available for attendees starting October 12th.

Please note that certificates for continuing education credits are not issued immediately following the conference. GLMA must first receive verification and approval from the individual accrediting bodies before certificates can be generated.

Processing times may vary depending on the accreditor, and it may take several weeks for all certificates to be finalized and distributed.

You do not need to email GLMA to check on the status of your certificate. All eligible participants who complete the evaluation will receive certificates when they are available.

We appreciate your patience as we ensure accurate and timely reporting to our accrediting partners.

GLMA 2025 DISCLOSURES

Disclosures

This educational activity contains discussion of published and/or investigational uses of agents that are not indicated by the FDA. GLMA does not recommend the use of any agent outside of the labeled indications. Faculty will disclose such discussion at the time of their sessions.

The opinions expressed in this educational activity are those of the faculty, and do not represent those of GLMA This educational activity is intended as a supplement to existing knowledge, published information, and practice guidelines. Learners should appraise the information presented critically and draw conclusions only after careful consideration of all available scientific information.

According to GLMA's disclosure policy, all faculty, planning committee members, editors, managers and other individuals who are in a position to control content are required to disclose any relationships with any ineligible company(ies). The existence of these relationships is not viewed as implying bias or decreasing the value of the activity. Clinical content has been reviewed for fair balance and scientific objectivity, and all of the relevant financial relationships listed for these individuals have been mitigated.

CONFERENCE GOALS

Conference Goal:

The goal of GLMA's Annual Conference on LGBTQ+ Health is to educate the healthcare team, including health profession students, about the unique health needs of LGBTQ+ patients and the unique challenges faced by LGBTQ+ healthcare providers and health profession students. The conference also aims to encourage and report on research into the health needs of LGBTQ+ people.

Global Conference Objectives:

At the conclusion of the conference, learners should be better able to collaborate with their care team to:

- Identify resources and avenues for healthcare access for the LGBTQ+ population;
- Describe recent research and advances in healthcare delivery specific to the LGBTQ+ patient population, and its potential implications for practice;
- Incorporate strategies for improving LGBTQ+ healthcare in your practice

Target Audience:

The conference is intended for the members of the healthcare team, including health profession students, involved in caring for LGBTQ+ patients.

IMPLICIT BIAS

Implicit Bias

Implicit bias refers to unconscious attitudes and stereotypes that influence our thoughts, judgements, decisions, and actions without our awareness. Everyone is susceptible to implicit bias, even clinicians. In healthcare, implicit biases can have a significant impact on the quality of care an individual receives. These biases can be both favorable and unfavorable, and are activated involuntarily without an individual's awareness or intentional control. Studies have indicated that healthcare providers' incorrect perceptions can impact providers' communications and clinical decision-making, contributing to disparities in clinical outcomes. Addressing implicit biases in healthcare is critical to improving health outcomes and promoting health equity for all patients. Patient-centered care can reduce the impact of implicit bias, by treating each patient as a unique individual who may or may not hold beliefs associated with their backgrounds and circumstances. In addition, recognizing implicit bias in one's own practice using techniques such as self-reflection and mindful clinical decision-making can ensure more equitable and effective care to all patients.

Over the past several decades, cognitive science research has demonstrated human behavior, beliefs and attitudes are shaped by automatic and unconscious cognitive processes. The healthcare profession is devoting greater attention to how these automatic and unconscious processes impact care including: (1) preferential treatment toward or against specific patient populations causing healthcare inequities, (2) influence patient-provider communications leading to misunderstandings and mistrust, and (3) impact access to healthcare and affect treatment decisions resulting in misdiagnosis, delays in treatment and specialty referrals and poor pain management. Considering one might have unconscious biases and exploring them may be uncomfortable because the very idea that they exist may conflict with how clinicians perceive themselves. It is only by becoming aware of one's unconscious biases that members of the healthcare team can take steps to mitigate them to ensure all patients receive quality healthcare.

This activity has been planned and implemented by the Association for Professionals in Infection Control and Epidemiology (APIC) and GLMA in collaboration. APIC is jointly accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME), the Accreditation Council for Pharmacy Education (ACPE), and the American Nurses Credentialing Center (ANCC), to provide continuing education for the healthcare team.

APIC designates this live activity for a maximum of 10.0 *AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)*TM. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
